Association News

Association President

Unfortunately, our current president Jenny Balfour-Paul will be stepping down this year, as under the terms of the Association's constitution we cannot extend her presidency. The Association would like to express sincere thanks to Jenny for her brilliant tenure as president and her support of the Association.

The Association is also delighted to announce that Jennie Parry, who many of you will already know, has accepted our invitation to take on the role of President from April 2019, following the Association AGM. Jennie is well known as an embroiderer and braid maker, and founder member of the Braid Society of which she was president from 1996 – 2001.

Summer School 2019 – Unprecedented Applications

The Summer School 2019 Committee and the GPC have been delighted and overwhelmed by the number of applications but also all feel very sad and disappointed that we won't be able to accommodate everyone who has applied. This is totally unprecedented and completely unexpected for all concerned.

It is becoming increasingly difficult, year on year, to find suitable, affordable venues, which have the facilities and accommodation a Summer School requires. So many Universities/Colleges have gone down the conference route, as they can demand a commercial delegate rate, which then becomes prohibitively expensive for us to host a Summer School but equally because they have carpeted the rooms and have soft furnishings/computers suites etc., they do not want the 'muck and mess' we generate with fleece, fibres and water, etc.

Agricultural Colleges have always been very welcoming to us but many quite simply do not have the accommodation, as many of their students are 16+ and attend daily and from the local area.

This means we are always severely restricted by space, accommodation and by price, especially as we do try and move these events around the Country.

This however is clearly of no comfort to the sixty applicants, who we have sadly advised they do not have a place for Summer School 2019 and hope this will not deter anyone from applying again for 2021 because we already have a venue for this and will be working hard to put together an exciting programme of courses, events and activities.

The venue is Greshams School, Holt in Norfolk and we had already agreed with them to have eighteen courses, instead of the fifteen we have for 2019 because they have the accommodation and the classrooms. Since the end of December, when it became apparent just how many people were going to be disappointed, we have been in discussions with them about increasing the number of courses we can offer to accommodate the increasing demand for places.

The GPC are also very aware that the period allowed for applications should now be reviewed. Historically four months was given, when we relied on snail mail and information in The Journal. This meant many members would be disadvantaged, as guilds meet at different times and Journals, at that time, were distributed by the Guilds but technology has moved on. Clearly from our experiences this time round, the website, emails, social media have all enabled us to reach members far quicker and from a much wider area. There were eighteen overseas applications this time too.

This will now be discussed at GPC meetings to see if we can improve the system, without disadvantaging anyone, as far as it is humanly possible.

Best wishes

Angela Colbridge
Chair for The Association of Weavers, Spinners & Dyers

GPC Member Profile

In each newsletter we'll be including a profile of one member of the Association GPC, who will be sharing more about their role and themselves, starting with Christina Chisholm.

Christina Chisholm – Journal Editorial Committee Chair / Journal Representative on the GPC

As the current Journal Editorial Committee Chair, I'm automatically a member of the GPC. As well as reporting the editorial development progress and financial health of the Journal to each GPC meeting, I am also able to provide input for the running of the Association and its regular events such as the National Exhibition and Summer School.

I am a Spinner, Weaver and Dyer (both Natural and Synthetic), and find combining all three in a single project particularly rewarding, as the disciplines naturally enhance one another. Spinning and dyeing my own yarns for woven textiles enables me to use exactly the yarn I want in the exact colours I require. Often these combinations of yarns and colours are not available commercially. I prefer using natural dyes where possible, both for personal satisfaction and for their soft, blending colours, but sometimes resort to synthetic dyes as more convenient for exact colour matching some of the more difficult hues (i.e. blues and turquoises). Likewise, spinning my own yarns gives me the exact fibre, thickness and twist I need.

My other interests include hillwalking and music; the former in particular gives me plenty of inspiration for textile design as I enjoy the landscapes of the Scottish Highlands & Islands, where I live.
